MOUNT BROMO

Mount Bromo is one of the most famous and most beautiful volcanoes in Indonesia. It is located in Tengger, East Java. Mount Bromo sits in the middle of a vast plain called the "Sea of Sand" , a protected nature reserve since 1919. The typical way to visit Mount Bromo is from the nearby mountain village of Cemoro Lawang. From there it is possible to walk to the volcano in about 45 minutes, but it is also possible to take an organised jeep tour, which includes a stop at the viewpoint on Mount Penanjakan (2,770 meters). The best views from Mount Bromo to the Sand Sea below and the surrounding volcanoes are at sunrise. The viewpoint on Mount Penanjakan can also be reached on foot in about two hours. From inside the caldera, sulfur is collected by workers.

Standing at a height of 2392 meters, Mount Bromo isn't the tallest mountain in Java. That title goes to 3676 meter tall Mount Semeru, located to the south of Mount Bromo and within sight. It is also called Mahameru, meaning "great mountain", Mount Semeru is one of the most active volcanoes in Indonesia, constantly producing steam from its peak.
